Wyoming Town Council Election

On one of the ten coldest days of the year; specifically, Saturday, February 29th, Wyoming residents turned out to vote in the Wyoming Town Council Election. Thank you to all the residents who braved the cold weather and came to the Municipal Building to vote. The results of the election are that Council persons Kyle Dixon and Tracy Johovic will retain their current seats. As you know, there was only one candidate for the Mayor's seat, which has been filled by Steve Billbrough. Our new mayor and all of the recently elected individuals will be sworn into office in May. Congratulations to all of the winners!
